Transition Cambridge and the Arts Picturehouse bring you a double bill of films:

The Powerdown Show (Episode 1) introduces the issues around peak oil and climate change, leading into thinking about positive solutions.

“The Turning Point: a Return to Community” shows how a community in Scotland is making the transition to a more resilient and sustainable way of life, including food, energy, transport, wastewater and a local currency.

Wednesday 19th October

6pm, Arts Picturehouse
St Andrew’s Street, Cambridge

Followed by a question and answer session with Liz Serocold and Anna McIvor, members of Transition Cambridge.

Cost: £8.50; £7.50 (conc); £6.50 (members)
